

The Angel
resident

RECOMMENDS

5 of the best North London galleries pushing the artistic boundaries

1 HIGHGATE CONTEMPORARY ART

With an eclectically engrossing exhibition schedule, Highgate Contemporary Art showcases the work of artists both locally and internationally. Their next exhibition is a case in point, running until 11 October: local artist and prominent psychiatrist and psychotherapist Morris Nitsun will be launching his new collection of paintings at the gallery (below).

26 Highgate High Street N6 5JG;
020 8340 7564; highgateart.com

2 CANDID ARTS

It's little wonder that there's always something happening at Candid Arts, given that it is located in two Victorian warehouses totalling 23,000 sq ft and offering 6,500 sq ft of loft-style exhibition space. A little advance notice, but the Islington Contemporary Art & Design Fair is always a highlight of their calendar, running on 21-22 and 28-29 Nov.

3 Torrens Street EC1V 1NQ;
020 7837 4237; candidarts.com

3 JAMES FREEMAN GALLERY

This Upper Street favourite exhibits contemporary painting, photography and sculpture by artists from Europe and Asia. Founded over a decade ago, their exhibition schedule presents a combination of curated group shows and solo exhibitions with both represented and invited artists. Running until 3 October is Artefacts, an exhibition about how contemporary artists use antique objects and historical sources in their work, before a group exhibition of paintings runs from 8-31 October.

354 Upper Street N1 0PD; 020 7226 3300; jamesfreemangallery.com

4 PANGOLIN LONDON

Unique in that it is one of the capital's few galleries dedicated to sculpture, Pangolin London aims to engage with the past, present and future of sculptural developments. With an intimate gallery setting as well as the open spaces of Kings Place, Pangolin is able to display both monumental and small-scale sculpture expertly. Next up is the godfather of British conceptual sculpture, Carl Plackman.

90 York Way N1 9AG; 020 7520 1480; pangolinlondon.com

5 ESTORICK COLLECTION

Located in a Grade II-listed Georgian building, the Collection is known internationally for its core of Futurists works, as well as figurative art and sculpture dating from 1890 to the 1950s. Up next is More than Meets the Eye: New Research on the Estorick Collection (work by Umberto Boccioni below).

39A Canonbury Square N1 2AN;
020 7704 9522;
estorickcollection.com

